DFB International Coaching Courses

Courses for football coaches held in English, French and Spanish

Twice a year the German Football Association (DFB) holds international coaching courses in for coaches from Africa, Asia and Central and South America leading to A and B licences. The courses, which last for between two and three weeks, take place in Hennef/Germany and are held in English, French and Spanish and scholarships are granted. They include not only football tactics and training methods but also visits to football matches and other excursions.

The courses are targeted at motivated and experienced coaches, male or female, who can then teach coaches in their own countries, making use of what they have learnt.

Anyone interested can get further information and advice on the application procedure from the German embassy or consulate in their country or from the German Football Association.

Leipzig University

Higher education in sports science in various disciplines in English, French, Spanish and Arabic

Every year the Sports Science Faculty at Leipzig University organises two five-month 'international higher-education courses for sports teachers and coaches'. These alternate between four types of sport specialisms and four languages (Arabic, English, French and Spanish). The 13 sports range from football and athletics to boxing, swimming and volleyball. Recently hockey has also been added to the list.

These post-graduate courses offer qualified and experienced foreign sports teachers and trainers the chance to improve their knowledge of sports science in an intensive course. They can enhance their practical and methodological skills in their particular sport, in sport for the disabled or as fitness coaches.

Participants should have completed a course of study in sport and/or have wide experience as active sportspeople and as coaches or sports teachers. The course curriculum includes: training science, sports medicine, sports education and sports psychology.

As with the courses in Hennef and Mainz, participants receive a monthly grant. Participants need to meet the cost of their travel to and from Germany.

Applications for these grants must be submitted via the relevant German embassy or consulate.

Training school for foreign coaches in Mainz

One-year courses for athletics coaches in German

Every year coaches and athletes from developing countries are given training in a 10 month course in Mainz. This training school is a joint project of the German Athletics Federation and Johannes Gutenberg University in Mainz.

The course, which includes both theoretical and practical elements, covers general movement and training theory, psychology, sports medicine, sports physiology, the construction of sports venues, sports organisation and competition organisation.

A German language course begins on 1 June each year, and runs parallel to the coaching course and ends with a language exam. The specialist athletics training begins on 1 October and finishes with exams the following July.

Applicants (male or female) must have knowledge of athletics, with practical experience as an athlete and/or coach, be in good health and have a good level of fitness. They should have a letter of recommendation from their national athletics association confirming that they will be employed after their return to their home country.

Participants receive a grant covering, among other things, the cost of board and lodging. Participants will need to cover the cost of their travel to and from Germany.

Interested individuals should apply via the German mission in their home country.
